On his return from some of the recent events in the Senior Service Schools, Mr. McCone has inquired concerning the careers of the officers who are selected to attend these schools. He wants to know what the Agency gets out of the attendance at these schools and he also is interested in the utilization of the officers who attend these schools. In connection with the latter, I believe that it would be interesting to see an analysis of the careers of the officers who have attended the five senior military schools and the Senior Seminar of the Foreign Service Institute. Could we have this material by 17 July?
